Public Men Have Known
No. 4
By C. F. Whitman

There was a great rain storm in October, 1868. Roads were badly galled in Norway, and several bridges were swept away in the freshet. A suit for damages against the town of the name of the industry resulted from it. Gen. William Wirt Virgin, the ablest lawyer in the county, was called to the bar for Oxford Bar at that time was counsel for the town. Mr. Henry M. Bland was called to the bar, and the matter I believe brought on for a small amount might have been settled for a small amount, but Mr. Virgin did not think that a suit ought to be mulched in damages. Before the case went to trial, Virginia had been appointed one of the judges of the Supreme judicial Court and Alvah Black was substituted. When the trial took place at A. Strout of Portland, one of the most astute jury lawyers in the state, was engaged to manage the Plaintiff's side, but no one was engaged with Black and being no match for Strout in the management of actions before juries, the town was badly beaten. The time of the case was $2,200. This did not surprise me, I had heard before my admission to the bar several of his cases tried, in which the clients were beaten and he was paid several hundreds of dollars, which subsequently made out did not change was, if one does not take great chances of losing his case to make great chances of losing his case, he had better employ him to manage. Mr. Black had served as clerk of the court three years, from 1853 to 1858 and he had learned all the different methods of legal procedure. He was previously a good story in this point: Mr. Black had two actions to try at a certain town in the court in the old county of Oxford Hill, was the old town of Oxford Hill, the course of his party and an ex-member of Congress whom Black looked up as a leader, was present. In one of the cases, Gen. Virginia was the defendant, and in the other action, the first case was tried and given to the jury and when it retired to deliver the verdict said to Mr. Black, "I think I see a good case."

"Why do you think so, Virg?"

"Well, I've brought out the evidence pretty well, and I think I ought to be."

"Ah, Virg, you never can tell what the jury will do." The fact was, Little had heard the whole that had been said, and thought Black would get his case and his friend.

After the second action had been given to the jury Black confidently said to Littlefield, "I'm going to win this case."

"What makes you think so, Alvy?" was the rejoinder.

"Oh, the jurymen are a more intelligent set of men, Mr. Littlefield," Tony replied.

"Oh, well, Alvy, it isn't based on too much faith on that." To those Black would be beaten in that case and when the jury returned with a verdict for the defendant he said to Tony, "What do you say now, Alvy?"

Black shrugged his shoulders and said his big nose to one side as he smiled an unsavory grin at the other.

"This only goes to show how things

Stephen D. Hutchinson was a New ern man with Southern principles.
 was born in Hebron in 1812, removed Buckfield where he served as town clerk for many years and having been elected register of deeds in 1846, settled

Paris Hill, where after he went on office January 1, 1858 he kept a store the rest of his life. He kept a place of resort for the faithful friends of the return of the old political days "befo' the war" which he came. Always when a young man came to Paris Hill, he was invariably treated kindly as I was from Buckfield and never failed to give me an interesting chapter out of his book of life. Of course I didn't know him at the time, but I have out of the curious man he related about men and the times. The coloring I made allowance for. I may here say, that barring the usual political faith of the times, he was a respected citizen. He once said this: "my grandfather was a rebel and an I."

He was very bitter against the blacks who once belonged to his central party and who let it on the cry and rum issues and finally drove it of power. These were Benjamin H. Col. Wm. K. King, John W. Upshur, George and Henry R. Horn.

Hamlin, he said had negro blood in him. Walton was an unscrupulous trick of a lawyer and judge, and Ketchum and Chase and Hammond had no other politics for him. These actions of course only showed his bias and hatred, arising from the loss of defeat. Such he died a cruel death, hard, but they had to go. The election was held at the register of deeds by Alden C. Woodstock in 1887 by some 350 men. As the law then was it was the county commissioners to give the vote the one chosen. The law didn't exist just when the votes should be taken. The meetings of the county commissioners were in May, September and January. The law was changed from May to May, a period of four months to Chase's term Hutchison, through counsel, Mr. Black, who was then a clerk of the courts set up the law. The votes were taken at the meeting of the commission in May.

Rufus K. Goodenow, who later clerk of courts and a Congress man, counsel for the county held the commissioners at their meeting member should act. But Chase to be doubly sure of the law, and now obtained the opinion of W. Walton, and his decision was Goodenow was correct. The commisconsidering their views of more than Black's, counted the votes said a certificate of election to But another complication arose. The first day of January 1857 round, Chase found the door to the jury locked, and that Hutchison the key in his pocket and refused it up to Chase. Was he to wait to the second day? "Take off the said the astute counsel, "put on one and stay in the office for a few and await results." This was done. Chase having begun the proceedings with his usual vigor, for four days without opposition, he lost and went nights to his boarding place. Hutchison and his legal advisers again beaten. In relating the case, Hutchison said: "Chase was the fellow like a cat on a hot tin lid. He was full of his opponents as belonging to your bar party." Our family is Chase very much, being a brother to him—but Hutchison's peculiar opinion of his opponents, caused laugh heartily.

LOVELLMothers' Club Organized

A Mothers' Club has been organized under the supervision of Mrs. Laura Best, who is the state field nurse for this district. The first meeting was held in the schoolhouse, Wednesday, Nov. 21. Officers were elected with Mrs. Jessie Noyes as president; Mrs. Irene Walker, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Cross, press correspondent.

The first meeting proved very successful, there being fifteen mothers present, but it is hoped that the next meeting will have double this number. At the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Best gave a very fine talk explaining the nature of her work, showing the difference between a state field nurse and a Red Cross nurse. The first lesson was on bathing and dressing the baby. It was most helpful as Mrs. Best had all necessary equipment for the baby and its bath. There are many lessons to follow, which should be of vital interest to mothers. Mrs. Best wishes the members to come prepared to ask questions and of course the more questions asked the more discussion created.

Mrs. Best is a very efficient nurse, having a very pleasing personality and especially fine way of explaining some of the difficult problems to mothers. Mrs. Noyes, who has been elected president, will be an energetic worker, too, as she is a graduate nurse and very competent in her work.

Mrs. Best wishes it to be made known that not only mothers are invited to these meetings, but anyone who is interested in the promotion of child welfare. Pamphlets will be given from time to time which will prove most helpful. This literature is sent out by the State Department of Health. Any mother who will feel well repaid for the time spent at these meetings, which are only held once a month. The next meeting will be Thursday, Dec. 14, at the village schoolhouse.

Let everybody be out to the First Union Meeting Sunday evening at the Congregational Church, time 7:30.

Heard on the street. Mr. Leavitt, the old man, went to the postoffice 28 times.

One forenoon and got 4 times in the afternoon. Guess he got tired out going.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Butler and family, who have been buying a new house, have moved to the house of Mrs. Butler's mother, where they have housekeeping rooms.

Miss Gladys Beal of Hill Street, South Paris, will be a dinner guest on Thanksgiving day of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Woodworth and family.

SQUANDER YOUR TIME

Here is a little problem to try when you are lonesome. It is more than odd and interesting.

Set down these figures—1 2 3 4 5 6 7 9, leaving out 8. Choose one of these figures and multiply it by 9. Then multiply 12345679 by the result.

To your surprise, the final result will be made of nothing but the first figure chosen.

For example, suppose you choose figure 5. Multiplying 5 by 9 gives 45. Multiplying 12345679 by 45 gives 555555555.

And no matter which figure is chosen to begin with, the final result will always contain 9 duplicates.

In doing this, you won't be wasting your time at the Wearies or similar places, talking about your neighbors.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS BACK

In the month of November, 1828, at the age of 10, Benjamin P. Butler left Bethel, N. H., for Lowell, Mass., to make his home and finish his education.

In after life he tells of the early days in the Granite State as follows:

"When I was a small boy in Deerfield two of our neighbors were Revolutionary soldiers, and our kitchen fire was a pleasant resort for them, as the cellar was furnished with an unlimited supply of cider, which was drawn for them in a tall, yellow earthen pitcher from an overhanging lip dropping away from each side.

To fill it three-parts full and then bring it up from the cellar was about the extent of my physical ability, but that I was to do. Then they would take down from the mantel-tree some dried peppers which hung on a string under the gun, and cut them up and put them into the cider. Next they set the pitcher on the hearth before a blazing fire, so that the cider got very much heated. Then it was drunk with this was for the week followed by stories of the Indian wars, of garrison houses, and of women running from the fields of corn, pursued by savages, and sometimes overtaken, and sometimes saved by the faithful musket of the husband or father.

Then they came down to later times—
the opening of the Revolutionary war, the massacre at Lexington and the battle of Bunker Hill, and so talked on until I had as deep-seated a prejudice against a red-coat as our turkey-gobbler exhibited to a red petticoat when he drove my sister into the house.

Thus I was taught that the highest achievement in life was to get behind a stone wall and shoot a Britisher. So thoroughly was this drilled into me that in after-life it was a matter for reasoning on my part whether I should treat an Englishman decently.

"With this early experience and with an ancestry composed largely of soldiers, General Butler had such a leaning towards military science that when the Civil War broke out he was looked upon as the best-equipped tactician in the country outside the regular army."

CRIMINAL ACT—NO JOKE

Brother Pandell of the Aroostook Republican has this to say:

"Jokes are always good if not carried too far, but one practical joke near Patten is thought to have carried his humor too far. He was seen when he made and carefully clothed a dummy and placed it across the road in such a way that it looked like a man who was either unconscious or was drunk when seen in the light of the stars. They went around a curve and saw the object in the road only a few feet ahead.

"The nervous shock sustained by those who nearly ditched their cars trying to avoid it or those who could swerve their cars quickly enough to avoid it would have made that joke most uncomfortable had he been in that vicinity at the time."

We recall an innocent Halloween prank of a few years back, when a rock was put in the road. It was a "guy devil" and killed the rider. The gray lads faced a manslaughter indictment and fond parents paid heavy damages to keep them out of prison. This occurred near the Country Club in the city of Lacomb, N. H.

NORTH FRYEBURG

There was a big bull moose seen in the place last week.

Master Linwood Shaw was operated upon for appendicitis at the Maine General Hospital, Portland, and has been on Chandler were in Portland, Friday.

could reach her. Mr. Cook received burns about the hands. Both were taken to the C. M. G. Hospital where little hope is given of Mrs. Cook's recovery.

They were assisting in the work at the Eastman home while Mr. Eastman was at Scarborough with a hunting party.

dentally shot, Friday, when the gun he was handling fell to the floor and was

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

What's She Going To Get?

A difficult question to answer, we know.
For no gift that a man gives calls for quite the thought that he must spend on the remembrance to her. Still we have been of help in a great many similar cases these many Christmases ago and mayhap we have here in the store a Watch, Ring, or piece of Jewelry or some other gift that will be worthy of her, and fitting to take your message of affection.

Why not come in and let us help you decide?

RHEUMATISM BANISHED BY

Buxton's Rheumatic Specific

Dear Mr. Buxton: I wish to say a few words of praise for your Rheumatic Specific.
My wife and I both had Rheumatism in arms and shoulders and suffered a great deal of pain.
Your Specific banished it entirely and every twinge disappeared. My friends to whom I have recommended the Specific received the same good results. I think that Buxton's Specific is a wonderful Rheumatic Medicine and a fine tonic as well. You may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish.

What Kind of Investment

Should I Make?

The person with surplus funds to invest has a wide range of possibilities before him. That's why this question is usually so puzzling to those inexperienced in investment matters.

The experienced buyer insists that his investments meet a three-fold requirement: first, safety of principal; second, a reasonably good income return; third, freedom from care and worry.

NORWAY VICINITY

Ben Richardson has moved his family to Mechanic Falls onto the premises Mrs. Richardson inherited by will from the late Mrs. Mary A. Packard. They plan to repair the buildings, keep poultry and raise garden truck and small fruit. Negotiations are in progress for the sale of the Richardson place on Whitman St. The new sign hung on the Grange Hall Saturday completes the exterior improvements, including painting started there two months ago.

Some three inches of snow that arrived November 22 provided sliding and skiing for the youngsters and slippery roads for motorists.

Howard D. Lasselle is making good recovery from a large carbuncle located on the back of his neck.

Howard H. Potter, civil engineer, and Stanley Murch, his assistant, have been surveying a few days in Dixfield. A squall lasting most of Sunday brought nearly two inches of snow and rapid drop in temperature. A stiff breeze in the evening and night made real winter conditions.

Bob Whitman, shipping clerk at the Norway Shoe Co., J. E. Hammond, head clerk, and Philip King, freight clerk, at the G. T. B. station, and L. H. Cushman, truckman, were called to Hammond, Ind., Saturday night, to testify in a case involving the larceny of goods shipped by the Norway Shoe Co., to a western concern some three months ago. They expect to return the last of the week.

D. OF V. MEETING

Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans, held an interesting and well attended meeting, Friday evening. Nomination of officers took place and election occurs at the next meeting. An invitation to visit Judith Grover Tent, at Bryant Pond, Tuesday evening, Nov. 27, was accepted and plans made to attend. The mystery box fell to Mrs. Ida Kimball Poland. "Veterans' Night" which was designated for observance on November 19, was commemorated with appropriate program. Several old time songs were sung. Mrs. Ada Treask read an original poem, "The Little Brown Button," a verse duet was given by Mrs. Betty Jacobs and Miss Etta Hussey. "The Soldier's Tribute." The 65th anniversary of the dedication of the Gettysburg Memorial Cemetery, which occurred November 19, 1863, was also observed. G. Julian Brown, son of a Civil War veteran, gave a talk on the dedication, and also a history of the battle of Gettysburg, as he has visited the cemetery and also the battlefield, and has made a study of the history.

It was found that five members and one son of a veteran present at the meeting had fathers who were in the 17th Maine regiment. Several incidents were told by other members of the Tent that were of interest. It was hoped that several of the old Veterans would be able to be present, but Comrade Charles Q. Brackett was the only one on hand. After the meeting, lunch was served.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM ICY PLUNGE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Haines of Lynn, Mass., narrowly escaped death in Little Androscoggin River, Saturday, when their car skidded and crashed through a fence into a pole carrying high tension power wires. The car was brought to a sudden stop on the brink of a steep bank that dropped abruptly into the river some 25 feet below. The occupants were shaken up, but not seriously hurt.

The Haines, on their way to Norway for the week end, were approaching the covered bridge on the state highway, two miles below Norway Village, when the automobile skidded on the icy concrete near the brow of the hill leading to the entrance. By a piece of good fortune, the pole averted a plunge into the deep river and possibly death.

Very little damage was done to the auto. A garage crew working on another wreck nearby, rendered assistance.

Richardson and is an accomplished musician, pianist, violinist and cellist. Her examination included thirty questions in musical history, musical form, touch and technique. While the examinations are taking place in many different parts of Canada and in some states also. But there is only one gold medal offered in the Licentiate section at each examination. Miss Allen is entitled to add "Lic. Mus. D. M. C." after her name in the future. Hayden, dentist had a day away from business last week. They made tracks in the Grafing and Upton snow without seeing game.

R. L. Sturgis' sale stable has been one of the busy places since a car of Western horses arrived. There are singles and pairs picked for heavy work and the stock has been rapidly reduced the past few days. Apparently motor trucks have not cornered the local market or replaced hardy animals for rough labor.

What's Mother Going to Get?

Mother's name, as a rule, heads the Xmas list—and is the hardest one to choose for.

But this year—give her a present that's exclusively hers—one that will last—perhaps a ring, a pin, or better, a lovely Elgin Watch in the fascinating new Parisienne designs.

This brief list may be suggestive—if not, take a 15-minute stroll through this store—and confide in one of our men what you'd like to give. He'll find the answer. At a price you want to pay, too.

Announcing

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History - a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History... a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past... notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor, with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding... even to those who have been driving cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

Throughout the entire speed range, it performs with a smoothness and quietness of operation that have never before been approached in a low-priced automobile. At the slower speeds of city traffic it idles along with wonderful silence and ease. On boulevards and country roads it responds with an eagerness that is a constant delight. It takes the longest and steepest hills with an abundant reserve of power that is a source of pride to the driver. And its economy of operation averages better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

This revolutionary performance has been achieved as a result of the greatest array of engineering advancements that Chevrolet has ever announced. A high compression, non-detonating cylinder head... a new heavier crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced... automatic lubrication of the entire rocker arm mechanism... semi-automatic spark control... hot-spot manifold... gasoline pump and filter... new and larger carburetor, with automatic acceleration pump and improved venturi choke... fabric camshaft gear... heavier driving gears... heavier differential gears... improved crankcase breathing system... improved lubrication... new 4-wheel brakes that are powerful, safe and quiet under all conditions—these indicate the importance of a group of engineering advancements that embrace every major unit of the entire chassis.

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations. The new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers.

With their modish new colors, their smart dual mouldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled in motor car design.

You are cordially invited to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information on this sensational new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

The Fryeburg Flyer

The Fryeburg Flyer

There is a man from our town
And he is wondrous wondrous wise,
Says he, "The Fryer" is of renown
Is the only place to advertise.

Sing a song of six pence
A pocket full of rye,
Dear old Fryeburg Flyer,
The only place to buy.

When the Fryer's opened
They scrap like everything;
The queen declares, she had it first,
So also does the king.

But each receives a section,
King says, "It's well spent money!"
New Boston Breezes' Queenie quacks,
"Is better" bread and honey."

When down darts a black bird
And crows the comic crayons.
Little Miss Muffit
Sat on a tuft.

Reading the Flyer, don't scold her,
And those who espied her
Just sat down beside her While others peeked over her shoulder.

Little Bo-Dee-Dee
Had lost her sheep
And couldn't tell where to find 'em,
Now she's more than she had,
"A-waggin' her tails behind 'em."

Little Jack Horner
Sat in a barrel
Waiting his Fryer on high;
Says he, "Here's my views,
I'm so full of good news,
That I've no room for Christmas pie."

The mouse said dickered best
The old clock I detest,
When the Fryer's here
For that strikes one, the best.

Jack and Jill
Went down the hill
For water from the river,
They tumbled down;
Each tumbled down
Was buried in the Fryer.

Hark, hark the dogs do bark,
The beggars are coming, I guess,
Who wouldn't beg
Or shake a leg
When the Fryer's right off'n the press.

There was an old woman who lived in a shoe,
Who had so many children, she knew not what to do,
She passed them a Fryer, and tickled them
In bed,
And when she awoke, they were mighty well read.

—C. R. MILLS.

Smith Street Smiles
When you see when you're rolling along,
The Fryer may rattle and clank,
But it'll work while It's in the Fryer, and he'll crank and he'll Crank and crank and crank and blankly
